BRILLIANT OCCASION.

The Masonic Fair Opened Last Night Under the Most Flattering Auspices.

A SCENE OF RARE SPLENDOR.

Booths Arranged to Represent a Country Village—Magnificent and Charming Features—Address of Welcome by Mayor Waddell.

The Masonic Fair, for which Wilmington has been on the qui vive for two months, opened last night at the elegant new Masonic Temple in a blaze of glory. The handsome building was brilliantly lighted with electricity and the scene was a magnificent one from the exterior.

The Fair.

The fair opened at 8 o'clock, and people thronged in by hundreds. The booths occupied the Blue Lodge Room and were arranged to represent a country village. The ceilings and walls of the hall were tastefully decorated with red, white and blue bunting, and hundreds of electric lights blazed from the ceilings and walls.

By nine o'clock the hall presented a magnificent scene. The gay booths and the floral decorations made up an entrancing scene, and people in great throngs moved from place to place, interested, delighted, and astonished at the display. Thus the coming of the Grand Master of Masons in North Carolina was awaited, the chief features of the evening being his welcome and that of the Grand Lodge.

The Grand Master Arrives.

Last evening at 5.45 P. M Dr. R. J. Noble, of Selma, N. C., Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons in North Carolina, and Grand Tiler R. H. Bradley, of Raleigh, arrived here by the Atlantic Coast Line. They were met at the depot by Messrs. James F. Post and C. W. Worth, a committee representing the Wilmington Masons, who escorted them to The Orton. After a short while at the hotel, where the Grand Master and Grand Tiler were joined by the Hon. A. M. Waddell, Mayor of Wilmington, the Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., and the directors of the Masonic Temple corporation, the party was escorted to the Temple. Mr. W. E Springer acted as escort to Mayor Waddell, Mr. James E. F. Post escorted Grand Master Noble, and Grand Tiler Bradley was escorted by Mr M S. Willard. From the directors' room the party was escorted to the Temple refreshment hall, where an elegant supper was served. After supper they returned to the directors' room, where they spent a half hour in conversation and smoking. The party then went up stairs to the fair, and Mayor Waddell and Grand Master Noble were escorted to the south end of the hall, where the speaking was to take place. The Italian harpers played several selections in the meantime. A tremendous throng assembled, and at 9 P. M. Mayor Waddell, who had been invited to do so by the Masons, delivered the address of welcome. His speech was brief, but was delivered in an eloquent manner peculiar to this distinguished orator of the Old North State.

Mayor Waddell's address was as follows:

Most Worshipful Grand Master:—As Mayor of this city I bid you a cordial welcome—as President of the Masonic Fair Association I tender to you the hospitalities of this most auspicious occasion—as a Mason I offer the tribute which is due to your exalted station. And as a fellow-citizen of North Carolina I greet your presence among us as a distinguished honor.

The Masons of this city feel a pardonable pride in contemplating this splendid building, which is to be their future home. It is a noble monument to their zeal and energy, and a fitting illustration of some of the virtues inculcated by the venerable society to which they belong.

The thought which finally fruited in this imposing structure was planted several years ago, and was carefully nursed through unpropitious seasons with single-minded devotion until it grew into a fixed purpose, which by its very audacity won the admiration and sympathy of all the Masons of this city, and to day they rejoice at its complete and triumphant realization. It is the only Masonic Temple in North Carolina, and it was according to the eternal fitness of things that its majestic proportions should rise where the first Lodge in the State was organized over a hundred years ago.

To morrow it will be your prerogative to dedicate it with the ceremonial prescribed in such cases. I am sure that the performance of that duty will give you even greater pleasure than you experienced in laying its corner stone a few months ago, and I trust that in the years to come the recollections of these two events will be a source of satisfaction to you as marking an epoch in the history of Masonry in North Carolina during your administration as Grand Master.

To the officers of the Grand Lodge who accompany you, and to all the brethren from other localities who have kindly favored us by their presence this evening we extend a warm fraternal greeting, and we beg to assure them that, as by the law of Masonry the doors of this Temple must always be open to them, so also will our hearts and our homes be while they are among us.

It is no part of my purpose, or of my duty—and it would be anticipating the programme of to-morrow—to give larger liberty to my tongue this evening, tempting as the opportunity may be, but I would be oblivious of the sentiment of ordinary gratitude if I failed to acknowledge, on behalf of the Masons of Wilmington, their obligation to the good women of this city for their orduous and unselfish labors in behalf of this fair, and to the very many generous persons in and out of the State, who have so liberally contributed to its success.

And now, Most Worshipful tendering to you officially and personally every assurance which hospitality can suggest, I have the honor to invite you to preside over this Fair of the Masonic Temple Association.

Mayor Waddell's speech was greeted with hearty applause, and when it died away, the Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., rector of St. James' Episcopal church, chaplain for the occasion, delivered an earnest and appropriate invocation.

Mr. James F. Post then briefly introduced Grand Master Noble, who made the response in behalf of the Grand Lodge. The Grand Master expressed his high appreciaton of his welcome, and made a speech which happily befitted the occasion. His remarks were received with a storm of applause.

The fair was then declared open and the immense throng of people went around to all the booths seeing the sights and buying themselves rich. Beautiful young ladies in flashing costumes flitted here and there selling shares, driving bargains, disposing of flowers, and a thousand other things.

F. and A.—John Gregory and Bettie McIver.

The only case of interest was that against the negro James Morgan, alias "Stick," who so violently resisted and slashed Policeman Guy with a knife on Market street, particulars of which are known to STAR readers. He was tried on two charges of assault and battery with a deadly weapon; one for resisting officer Guy and one for carrying concealed weapon. Judgment was suspended in all cases save one and Judge Battle gave him eight months on the county roads.

True bills were returned by the grand jury as follows: Owen Madison, larceny; George Moore, larceny; Fred Davis, George Farr, Mary Moody and George Roderick, assault with deadly weapons.

The County Chain Gang.

In accord with his promise, Judge Battle is furnishing Capt. Barry, the County Road Superintendent, with some excellent material for the chain gang and the establisment of this institution by the county commissioners upon the insistence of Judge Battle is a long felt want supplied. From yesterday's session of the court alone, seven offenders were given the penalty of terms on the road.

The session was convened yesterday morning at 9 40 o'clock and an adjournment was taken yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock until this morning at 9.30, when other cases will be heard.

Steamer Aground.

While the British steamer Moonstone was being towed to sea early Sunday morning with a cargo of gum timber and naval stores for the Acme Tea Chest Co., she went aground off Carolina Beach pier, but floated on the flood tide yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. She was then accompanied on her trip out to sea by the tugs Marion and Blanche. Neither the vessel or cargo was damaged. Mr. Will L. Miller of the Acme Company, told a STAR representative yesterday that his next steamer for a cargo of timber would arrive about the middle or last of December.

Married Sunday.

Mr. George W. Mote, of this city, was united in marriage on Sunday after at 5 o'clock to Miss Rosa Barnitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Barnitz of Wrightsboro, New Hanover county. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. Culbreth, pastor of Bladen street M. E. Church, of this city. Mr. Mote and his bride arrived in the city Sunday evening and will make their home at Third and Bladen streets.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 21.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY.

There is a growing interest in the South in the dairy industry, although it can yet be hardly called an industry in this section. It has progressed far enough, however, to have dairymen's associations in several of the States, which number among them many of the most progressive and successful farmers, and through these associations the farmers of the States in which they exist acquire a great deal of information, direct or indirect. Georgia is one of the States in which a great deal of interest is being manifested in this subject, and something like systematic efforts being made to encourage and establish it as one of the leading industries of the farm. The press of the State is doing its part in promoting it. As showing the interest taken by the railroads, the farmers and the press, we clip the following editorial from the Atlanta Journal:

"The Journal observes with especial interest the great work being done for the development of the dairy interests of the state. This good cause has enlisted the efforts of a number of individuals, including the staff of the Georgia Experiment station, and has been aided liberally and effectively by the Central Georgia railroad company under the personal direction of Mr. J. M. Egan, vice president and general manager of the system. A great railroad system like the Central can be a power for good in the development of a State, and we are glad to see that great machinery turned so effectively in this direction. Within the past thirty days two conventions of dairymen have been held in Georgia, and for the delegates in attendance on both free passes were issued by the railroads. Altogether about 1,000 of these tickets were issued. In this the Central and the Atlanta and West Point roads were the main contributors.

"The Central Georgia Dairymen's convention held at Griffin on Tuesday was worked up by the Central Georgia Railway through it energetic commissioner, Mr. E. H. Weed, who visited the homes of about six hundred farmers during the past six weeks, carrying to each a special invitation to attend the convention at Griffin and inspect the new creamery erected there by John Wallace, H. J. Wing and others. In order to induce the farmers to attend the meeting the Central Railroad issued five hundred free passes to individuals in Troup, Carroll, Spalding and Pike counties, and this inducement, together with the personal efforts of Mr. Weed, brought together 500 of the best residents of that territory. They all saw the new creamery and posted themselves on the methods by which the best butter is made. From there they went to the opera house and heard an address by Col. I. C. Wade, of Virginia, earlier from Wisconsin, one of the foremost dairymen in the United States. Colonel Wade came to Georgia at the special request of Mr. Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railway, in whose service he is at present engaged. It is probable that the Southern railway will adopt the same policy that has been adopted by the Central, and will endeavor to extend the interest in dairying over the entire length of its territory, which embraces about eight of the Southern States.

"After this came a very timely talk by Dr. Nelson P. Hinkley, one of the most distinguished veterinary surgeons in the United States, who pointed out the danger to Georgia cattle from Texas fever, and the means by which the disease is to be stamped out.

The fact that was also brought out, in an address by Mr. J. M. Kimbrough of the Experiment station, that is throwing away the corn stalks of each crop, the farmers of Georgia waste annually a product worth, at the least calculation, $4,500,000. In other words, they are throwing away about forty per cent. of the corn crop. Here is going to waste a product as big as that of the lumber and naval stores industry of this State in which millions of dollars are invested. Mr. Kimbrough also showed by the tests of actual experience at the experiment stations of Louisiana, Georgia and other States, that shredded corn is worth more, pound for pound, than cotton seed hulls, and more than the timothy hay which is brought in immense quantities from the west.

So it appears that Georgia is throwing away more than $4,500,000 worth of good forage, while she pays an enormous sum for hay shipped from the west. Ten years ago farmers laughed at the idea that cornstalks would make good hay, but this position is now taken by all well posted men.

It was also shown that the dairy industry, wherever persistently followed, has redeemed the farm from the bondage and debts of all cotton system, and Mr. Wing, the able and enthusiastic dairyman of the Georgia Experiment station, declares that this industry will yet be the means of paying off mortgages on Georgia farms. He asserted that it will eventually give the state a product worth more in dollars and cents than that of the cotton crop, while at the same time it so enriches the land that it will produce cotton and all other crops in larger quantities and under more profitable conditions.

Dr. Hunnicutt, editor of the Southern Cultivator, made the terse statement that the farmers of Georgia have been killing themselves, killing grass, to make cotton, when they should cultivate grass and raise cattle. This epigram contains a word of truth and wisdom, and we sincerely hope that the farmers of Georgia will learn the lesson it contains.

We reproduce this editorial entire because, while it is written of Georgia, there isn't a point in it that does not apply equally to North Carolina—not a point advanced for the establishment of the dairy industry in that State that cannot be as pertinently and strongly advanced for the establishment of the industry in North Carolina. The two railroads mentioned in the editorial which we clip deserve credit for the active part they are taking in encouraging this industry, but it is business with them for later on they will reap benefit from it—not only by carrying the dairy products to market, but other products which the dairy will stimulate. The dairy means not simply milk, butter and cheese, but it means more grass, better lands, more productive fields, a greater variety of crops, more wheat, corn, vegetables, etc., more beef, better cattle, more hogs and sheep, more of everything that grass culture, methodically and extensively pursued, makes possible. This, of course, means not only more prosperity and wealth for the people engaged in it, but more business and profits for the railroads which carry these products to market.

A considerable portion of Minnesota which became bankrupt raising wheat was redeemed from bankruptcy and made prosperous by the establishment of dairies and creameries, and now, that is the principal industry in a number of counties, where but little wheat is grown for market. There are hundreds of creameries in Iowa and Wisconsin, where they have proven much more profitable and valuable than grain crops. But none of these States has the advantages which almost every part of the South has for this industry, because the summers are short and hot—the winters long and severe necessitating much more care of cattle and much more expense in caring for them. And yet the bulk of the butter sold in our Southern cities and towns, and nearly all the best of it, comes from these and other Western and Northern States, when the reverse ought to be the case, and may be yet when our people begin to realize what there is in this industry, the advantages they enjoy in following it, and take hold of it in earnest.

There are eleven million cows in the United States furnishing milk for the dairies, to make butter, cheese, &c., and with all that we have oleomargarine and other imitations of butter because there is demand enough for it to make those imitations salable and profitable. There is always a demand for good butter and at prices that pay the maker. Every pound of good butter made in the South for some years to come could find a ready and profitable market in our own cities and towns without sending it far from home.

SHUTTING UP THE MILLS.

The tinplate industry of this country is controlled by a Trust that runs the mills and fixes the price of every pound of tinplate made in this country. It can do this because the duty on tinplate protects it from the competition of foreign manufacturers. It is somewhat remarkable, however, that in the midst of the great prosperity of which we read so much, while other manufacturing industries are branching out and increasing their productive capacity to meet increased demands upon them, the tinplate Trust is closing up many of its mills, and throwing hundreds of men out of employment. The extent to which this has been already done is told in the following dispatch, from Cleveland, Ohio, to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

"In the face of all that has been proclaimed as to the prosperous condition of the tinplate trade in the United States, the amazing fact comes to light that of the 39 plants controlled by the American Tinplate Company 106 mills are shut down. This is equal to the total capacity of the 16 plants, and means a loss to labor of nearly $371,000 a month, to the Trust of $20,000 monthly in interest on unproductive investment and possible millions in lost profits. It further means the idleness of over 2,000 men in the rolling department alone, and thousands more in other departments.

"In the face of these facts no statement that is at all adequate to explain these astounding conditions can be secured from any quarter. The work men simply point to the idle mills and refer to the wages that they are losing, and the Trust people preserve a sphinx-like silence, while consumers and foreign manufacturers hazard all sorts of conjectures. Some of these are plausible, others bear their refutation upon their face. One fact alone stands out like the accusing handwriting in the hall of Belshazzar: The mills are closed. McKinley special protection to the contrary notwithstanding, no wheels are moving in 106 of them.

"Shortage of steel, increasing Welsh competition, high prices of raw material and consequently small profits, the decadence of the Standard Oil Company's custom, some inscrutable purpose on the part of the Trust—all these are suggested, but none seem to explain the industrial mystery.

"The conditions have no parallel since the industry received its impetus from the McKinley law."

This action seems to be mystifying, but the Trust doubtless knew what it was doing when it closed these mills. Perhaps it wants to reduce the stock on hand to make another advance in prices. Controlling the mills, of course the Trust has a right to close them up when it chooses. If it was simply closing them up it wouldn't matter so much, but closing them up not only throws out of employment the large number of people at work in them, but a large and perhaps a larger number of people employed in other industries connected directly or indirectly with the tinplate industry, so that when the Trust closes its mills to save money or make money for itself, it does so at the expense of other industries, which in their turn affect others, and takes the bread out of the mouths of thousands of laborers who are dependent upon their daily wages for the bread that they and their families eat.

ANOTHER BIG SCHEME

The Charlotte papers announce the probable accomplishment of the scheme to utilize the Catawba river, twelve miles distant from Charlotte, for the transmission of electric power to that city, also for lighting the city, running street cars and other purposes. Home and northern capital is to be invested in it, and the work carried out on a grand scale, much grander they say than the work now in progress at "The Narrows" on the Yadkin river. This project was one of the first of the kind talked about in the State, and seems to have been somewhat slow in materializing, but perhaps this was all for the better, as it promises to materialize in such good shape.

With this under way it will make the fourth plant of this kind in the State, the Roanoke scheme, if it fruits, will make the fifth, and these five will take in several of our largest manufacturing cities in the central belt of the State, such as Raleigh, Fayetteville, Salisbury, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Concord and Asheville. But there are a number of other streams which can be similarly utilized, furnishing power to many other points, and creating manufacturing towns where there there is now but little if anything done in that line.

In this respect there are few States so well situated as North Carolina, running as it does along the mountain slope for nearly entire length, from East to West, every stream of any volume furnishing more or less power, some of them, like the Roanoke, the Yadkin, the Catawba and the French Broad, a practically inexhaustible amount.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— It may be observed that, according to Professor Worcester, our slaughtering of the Filipinos is quite humane. What could the poor devils wish for other than to be slaughtered by a people as highly civilized and benevolent as we are? Richmond Dispatch, Dem.

—— At last the Georgia House has passed a law taxing dogs! It is sincerely hoped the Senate will act favorably upon the bill. If this Legislature will give the state an anti-dog law it will take a long step towards building up a profitable wool and mutton industry.—Savannah News, Dem.

—— The Tinplate Trust has closed some more of its mills and turned out of employment more working men in order to raise higher the price of its tariff sheltered product. Still the country never ceases to receive assurances of the great blessing of the Dingley tariff; —Philadelphia Record, Dem.

—— Notwithstanding that Germany and some other European countries discriminate against the American pig, the animal continues to hoe its own row commercially, the export of bacon, hams and pork last month coming near to one hundred million pounds, the largest October figures on record. Brooklyn Citizen, Dem.

— Goldsboro Argus: Mr. W. H. Collins, the noted fruit grower, trucker and dairyman of this city, laid on our table this morning a new order of growth—an Irish potato vine with the potatoes growing on the branches above ground and none on the roots.

— Kinston Free Press: Mr. M. W. Brown, one of Duplin county's most progressive and successful farmers, sold 1,318 pounds of tobacco on the Carolina Warehouse floor Saturday for $265.09, averaging over 20 cents a pound. Some of his tobacco brought 43 cents a pound.

— Raleigh News and Observer: Mr. C. C. Hagler, lives in Crab Orchard. Saturday afternoon he drove to town in a hack, hitching his horse in a lot in rear of Wadsworth stables. Last night after completing his trading for Sunday, he went to the lot to get his horse. Instead of finding the horse he found only the harness which he had left on the horse. It had been taken off and left by the post to which the horse was hitched.

— Charlotte News: A telephone message from Statesville to the News states that Gen. A. D. Cowles died there this (Saturday) morning, after an illness of six weeks. Yesterday he was taken suddenly worse and failed to rally. —— Capt. J. H. Sloan was a Charlotte visitor to-day. He came in last night from Wilmington and left this morning for Spartanburg. Captain Sloan says the cotton merchants are doing little or nothing these days. The Southern mills are consuming the cotton as fast as the farmers market it, so there is nothing left for the exporters. He does not see any change in sight—at least for the next month or so.

— Raleigh News and Observer: At Asheville during the past week the Government secured the conviction of John Sutton, a notorious moonshiner from the Tennessee border, on an indictment charging him with violating the internal revenue law. He was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. The charge against him of murdering Sheriff Dawson, of Tennessee, will not be taken up at the present time, the officers contenting themselves with this conviction until the murder case can be fully investigated. Sutton, it is alleged, is a very bad man and is feared by the community on Pigeon River, where he resided. For this reason it was a very difficult matter for the officers to obtain all the proof necessary to obtain a conviction on the charge of murder so long as there was any chance of Sutton returning and visiting summary punishment upon those of his neighbors who appeared against him. With Sutton in prison here for a term of three years, however, the officers believe that this backwardness in speaking will disappear, and that if Sutton is actually guilty it will be known in a short time.

SCHOOL SANITATION.

Municipal Regulations In Various Large Cities.

The legislation of 17 representative cities deals with only nine subjects—vaccination, contagious diseases, fire, fire drills, cleanliness, ventilation, temperature and floor space. Of these cities—nine, led by Boston and Chicago, order that children not cleanly shall be sent home; eight only have rules regulating ventilation, and in seven of them this only means that teachers use care that the air be pure in the rooms. Detroit has by recent act of the legislature a law similar to that of Massachusetts. It provides that it "shall be the duty of the committee on health and ventilation to inform themselves and to advise the board from time to time in regard to all matters relating to the warming, ventilating and lighting of the schoolrooms, the sanitary conditions of the buildings and grounds and all matters relating to vaccination, contagious diseases and the general health of the pupils and teachers, recommending to the board such action as they may deem necessary."

This legislation would seem to be thorough if it was certain that such committee was efficient. Eight cities fix a standard of ventilation ranging from 65 degrees to 70 degrees, Minneapolis requiring the temperature to be kept at 70 degrees. Brooklyn alone has ruled that pupils' seats shall not face the light. Only Brooklyn and New York city legislate as to floor space. Brooklyn's legislation says: "The seats in all new buildings hereafter erected shall be placed so as to allow at least 12 square feet of floor space and 200 cubic feet of air space for each primary pupil; 14 square feet and 225 cubic feet for each grammar grade pupil below the sixth, and 18 square feet and 250 cubic feet above the fifth, and no school building shall be erected which does not provide outgo and income air flues of a sufficient size to insure a change of all air of each schoolroom from three to six times an"

SHE SAVED HER HAT.

And Learned a Thing or Two About Umbrellas as Well.

There was a woman down town the other day who wanted, above all things, an umbrella. To buy an umbrella is an easy thing, but there never was a woman who would not feel that it was a wicked waste of good money to buy an umbrella when she did not need it and when there were a thousand other things for which she would like to spend her money.

This woman had both a good sun umbrella and a rain umbrella, hence it was to fly in the face of Providence to get another one of either kind. Still she had an errand up town, she could not go home, and she had on a brand new hat, and it certainly looked as if it was going to rain. Then she settled herself down to think. There is nothing much one cannot do when it has to be done and a little brain work is put to the matter in hand.

"I have it," she said at last. "I shall go to an umbrella shop and ask them to let me hire an umbrella for the day."

"Have you the nerve?" queried the diffident man.

"Certainly," answered the woman firmly, her thoughts intent on the need of protection for that new hat. But she did not feel altogether as confident as she seemed.

"Could you"—she began at the umbrella shop—"I mean I have come on a rather strange errand—I—that is—have you got any old umbrella that I could hire to go up town?" she burst out finally feeling as if she had been caught stealing sheep and fumbling for a card. The clerk took it all quite as a matter of course.

"We have no umbrellas to let," he said politely, "but if you go into the hotel next door they have them to let there."

"Certainly," said the man in the hotel. "You put down $1.25, and when you bring the umbrella back the dollar is returned. This is not a new business. We have been doing it for 20 years."

"Certainly," repeated the man at home. "They have umbrellas at many of the hotels. It is a side issue, a business carried on by the porter often, I think. It is particularly for the benefit of commercial travelers, I imagine."

Then the woman drew a long breath to think of the many things in the world she had yet to learn, but she blessed that faculty in her which the man had called "nerve," which had tempted her to do something unusual to save her money and her hat as well.—New York Times.

"Well, I did, for a fact."

"I'm glad to hear it. But why didn't you cut the leaves?"—Chicago Record.

THE ICE FLOW.

Tremendous Energies and Their Results but Little Understood.

The action of flowing ice, whether in the form of riverlike glaciers or broad mantling folds, is but little understood as compared, says John Muir in the August Atlantic, with that of other sculpturing agents. Rivers work openly where people dwell, and so do the rain and the sea thundering on all the shores of the world, and the universal ocean of air, though invisible, speaks aloud in a thousand voices and explains its modes of working and its power. But glaciers back in their cold solitudes work apart from men, exerting their tremendous energies in silence and darkness. Coming in vapor from the sea, flying invisible on the wind, descending in snow, changing to ice, white, spiritlike, they brood outspread over the predestined landscapes, working on unwearied through unmeasured ages, until in the fullness of time the mountains and valleys are brought forth, channels furrowed for the rivers, basins made for meadows and lakes, and soil beds spread for the forests and fields that man and beast may be fed. Then, vanishing like clouds, they melt into streams and go singing back home to the sea.

Standing on this adamantine old monument in the midst of such scenery, getting glimpses of the thoughts of God, the day seems endless, the sun stands still. Much faithless fuss is made over the passage in the Bible telling the standing still of the sun for Joshua. Here you may learn that the sun stands still for every devout mountaineer—for everybody doing anything worth doing, seeing anything worth seeing. One day is as a thousand years, a thousand years one day, and while yet in the flesh you enjoy immortality.

Dr. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION FOR WEAK WOMEN.

Ballad.

"Whither away? Shall we sail or stay? Whither away," I said,
"Into the sunset's glory of gold and passion of rose red?
Over the water changed to wine and into the sky we slip,
But never a fairer shore than this shall find our buoyant ship,
Not though by shadowy Arcady we drop the anchor at last,
And in the dusk our weary sails come rattling down the mast.
Into the dark steals off the bark; let us stay in our bridal June;
Whither away should lovers stray from the island of Honeymoon?"

"Oh, far away in the dying day, and farther away!" she cried,
"Ere the glory of gold has faded yet or the passion of rose red died!
Oh, far away from the happier present visit the happy past,
Though never shall our ghostly sails die down the shadowy mast,
For we will flit by the twilight land and name the places fair,
But set no foot on the shore," she cried, "nor drop the anchor there;
But under the night with so swift a flight that the keel is singing in tune,
Back, haste back on the starry track to the island of Honeymoon!"

—J. Russell Taylor in August Scribner's.

HOW BLYKINS FAILED

HAD SET OUT TO MAKE HIMSELF GOOD LOOKING.

But, After Making a Number of Purchases With That End In View, Came to the Conclusion That His Efforts Were All Vain.

Mr. Blykins came home with a large number of bundles under his arm. When he got inside the door he made straight for the kitchen and had an interview with the cook. His wife made no inquiries and offered no comment.

When the roast beef was brought in he looked at the napkin which had been given him and tossed it aside.

"Gimme another one," he exclaimed.

"Why, what's the matter?"

"This ain't big enough," was the only explanation.

When his demand had been complied with he tucked the expanse of linen ostentatiously around his neck, tasted the food before him and sat back, with his knife and fork crossed before him and an inane grin on his face. His wife stared at him.

"What do you think of it?" he asked, suddenly becoming serious.

"Of what?"

"The way I look. Do I strike you as the picture of prosperity and content? Do I impress you as a portly bon vivant who has realized one of the supreme moments of his existence?"

"No," she answered sweetly yet sadly. "I can't say that is what you remind me of."

He made no reply, but took the napkin from his neck and, after taking a few dyspeptic nibbles of the roast, pushed his plate away.

"You wouldn't object to my having another cup of coffee and smoking a cigar with it, would you?" he inquired.

"Certainly not."

He took the cigar from his upper left hand vest pocket and looked at a small advertising card which he had placed there with it. He stood up with one hand half way in his trousers pocket, while the other held the cigar in front of him. Then he resumed his previous smile.

"How is it?" he asked anxiously after a moment. "Is that all right? Do I remind you of a wit, philosopher and raconteur? Is there a glow of affable comfort emanating from me, an intimation that I am liable at any moment to make life cheerier with a flow of genial eloquence?"

"No."

"The fact that I have side whiskers doesn't help out the illusion?"

"I am afraid not."

"I look just as round shouldered and long jawed as ever?" he persisted in a tone of calm self depreciation which was pathetic.

"I didn't say that."

"I guess it's no use. It's another deception. I have looked at the advertisement of the table sauce with the picture of the prosperous, portly man till I couldn't resist the temptation to try it. I thought if I could look like that just once in my life it would be worth every cent it cost. Art is a great thing, but it is misleading. The picture which goes with that cigar gave the impression that it causes a man to look every inch an after dinner orator. I have another in my pocket that accompanies the portrait of an actor who can melt your heart by gazing upward just past his eyebrows and drawing the corners of his mouth down with an expression of deep tenderness. But I'm not going to try it. The goods may be all right, but the pictures are a snare and a delusion. I've got some shaving soap which I relied on to make me resemble an Apollo in store clothes and a suit of underwear that ought to make a man appear fetchingly coy and humorous as he holds it up in front of his business suit and measures it to his manly figure and a lot of other articles, but I'm not going to try any of 'em. I'm disillusioned. You can take 'em to the stores whose names are on the wrappings, and if you can get the money back you can have it. I have made a conscientious effort to be beautiful, and I know when I'm beat."

The Grand Masonic Fair Opens

ITS DOORS

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 21.

WILL MAKE PULL FOR HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

Business Men Accompanied by Congressmen Bellamy and Small Inspect Proposed Site for Ship Mooring.

With a view to the inauguration of a concerted movement on the part of Wilmington business men and others to secure for Wilmington those things in the matter of river and harbor facilities which her importance as a port entitles her to and which have been denied, probably more on account of the inertia of her business men than to other causes, a cruise was yesterday taken down the river on the launch Evelyn by a number of leading Wilmington citizens, including Messrs. H. C. McQueen and James Sprunt, accompanied by Hon. Jno. D. Bellamy, Congressman from this district; Hon. J. H. Small, of Washington, N. C., Congressman from the First district, and ex-Congressman Settle, of Greensboro.

While plans for any definite work are yet immature, it is learned from a member of the party that the idea to thoroughly investigate Wilmington's shipping needs and when Congress meets the Chamber of Commerce to urge an appropriation for the Cape Fear improvement fully up to the requirements of the ports, shipping importance.

The cruise yesterday was down the river as far as the "Dram Tree" to look at the river channel at a point opposite Kidder's mill with the idea in view of inducing the Chamber of Commerce to urge upon Congress the need of a ship mooring there for approximately 1,800 feet in width. Messrs. Bellamy and Small were present and of course by the visit, they will be better able to reflect the wishes of Wilmington in the matter, when the river and harbor appropriation is being made up.

"THE MOTH AND THE FLAME."

Presented at the Opera House Last Night by the Kelcey-Shannon Company.

Last night at the Opera House a most cordial reception was tendered the Kelcey-Shannon Company, who appeared for the first time in this city in "The Moth and the Flame."

Despite the opening of the Masonic Fair a large and cultured audience assembled and by frequent applause attested their appreciation of the play. "The Moth and the Flame" has to do with the unravelling of a social question which has long been agitated and which to-day forms an important factor in our civilization.

The play is intensely thrilling in its dramatic incidents, full of startling situations almost bordering on the melo dramatic, yet so cleverly handled as to place it on a much higher plane. It tells a story of love and despair; woven into a thread of such refinement and elegance as to completely obliterate the few objectionable features one might see between the lines.

The company is in accord with the excellence of the stars and contributed much to their support. Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon make a strong combination and furnish a delightful evening's entertainment.

EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID FEVER.

Said to Have Prevailed at State Normal Institute—Term Suspended.

Misses Annie Morton, Emma Greenabaum, Annie Harrison and Katie King, returned Sunday from the State Normal College, on account of an epidemic of typhoid fever, which is reported at this institution. Miss Greenabaum, Miss Morton and Miss Harrison were quite sick on their arrival here and Messrs. S. C. Morton and Alex. Greenbaum who went up and accompanied their sisters home, report that the college has been tempararily suspended on account of the prevalence of fever. There are said to be as many as fifty cases in the college alone, attributed by some to impurities in the water supply or imperfection in the gas system.

Four deaths aresaid to have resulted in the student body, and up to the time of suspension of the term a general panic was prevailing.

A dispatch to the STAR last night says:

"An epidemic of typhoid fever has broken out at the State Normal and Industrial College here, making it necessary to close the school until January 1st. There are now more than eighty of the young ladies (students) confined to their beds by sickness. Two have died—Miss Dean, of Wilson, N. C., and Miss Caldwell, of Davidson College. A number of trained nurses have been secured, and the people of Greensboro are aiding in caring for the sick. It is believed the epidemic is caused by defective sewerage."

Mr. Martin Special Master.

In what is known as the fertilizer rate case Judge Simonton has issued the following order:

"It is hereby ordered that Eugene S. Martin, Esq., (the Standing Master being of counsel and disqualified) be and he is hereby appointed Special Master in this cause, who is instructed to inquire into the rates prescribed for the carriage of fertilizers and all facts bearing thereon and especially as to their reasonableness, with leave to report any special matter, the said Special Master to proceed with all convenient speed and report to this court."

— Mrs. J. E. Norwood, of Newberry, S. C., arrived yesterday to attend the marriage of her sister, Miss Julia Worth Daggett.

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all druggists. †

CAMPAIGNING IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Americans' Occupation of the Country is Proceeding With Great Vigor.

CAVALRY DOING GOOD WORK.

Aguinaldo's Army Believed to be Within American Lines—Town of Zamboango On the Island of Mindanao Occupied by Naval Force.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

MANILA, November 20.—The American occupation of the country between Manila and Dagupan is proceeding with a rush. General MacArthur is within five miles of Dagupan, which place General Wheaton and General Lawton will probably occupy. The railroad is practically intact beyond Damban except for a distance of five miles to the north, and rails for that portion have been discovered. Large quantities of rolling stock have, however, been destroyed.

General MacArthur is moving his troops by train and the roads within General Lawton's territory are becoming passable.

Captain Leonhaeuser, accomplished one of the best coups of the war. Reaching O'Donnell by a night march from Capas, on November 18, he surprised the insurgent force, numbering 200, and captured all of them, with their arms, 10,000 rounds of ammunition and four tons of subsistence. One Filipino was killed, but there were no American casualties.

Remarkable Campaigning.

Only fragmentary reports reach Manila of the operations north, which, when the story is told, will prove to be the most remarkable campaigning the Philippine war has known. Gen. Lawton's division is spread thinly over the territory beyond San Jose, where the telegraph ends. Gen. Young's regiments of cavalry are continuing their rapid sweep into the new towns, and the infantry is being shoved forward to hold the towns the cavalry have taken. The country's natural difficulties are increased indescribably by tropical rains, making rivers out of swamps and creeks of fields. Wagon transportation is supposed to have been practically abandoned, the American troops living on captured supplies and the little produce the insurgent leaders have left.

Major Samuel M. Swigert's squadron of the Third cavalry is reported to be engaging a greatly superior force at Pozzorrubio, northeast of Dagupan. These troops have fought three engagements, and are now holding their position, waiting for reinforcements. It is believed at headquarters that this Filipino force is covering the retreat of the insurgent leaders to the Binguet mountains; that the insurgents planned to retreat northeast, along the Tayug road, (which is stocked with storehouses which the Americans have secured) to draw upon en route, and that only the insurgent advance force had passed Tayu before the American occupation, the main body of Aguinaldo's army being within our lines. The majority of these insurgents may disorganize and pose as amigos when the Americans overtake them.

Sailors Occupy Zamboanga.

Sailors from the gunboat Castine occupy Zamboanga, on the southwest extremity of the island of Mindanao. The business men, chiefly Chinese, requested Commander S. W. Very, of the Castine, to take possession of the place and protect them from the insurgents. Commander Very landed a naval force and although no details have been received, it appears that he found he had a large contract on hand and telegraphed to Major General Otis requesting the presence of troops. But none are available except by withdrawing part of the force from one of the neighboring islands temporarily.

The original plan was to have Brigadier General Alfred E. Bates establish the headquarters of the governorship of the Mohammedan islands there when the new regiments arrive. It will be carried out later when General Bates returns from his trip to the southern islands. He has been visiting the garrisons of Jolo, Siassi and Bongao.

Friendly Natives.

The friendliness of the Moros for the Americans is increasing under General Bates' diplomatic administration. The threatened feuds of the Datohs, Jakainins and Calois against the Sultan will probably be averted through the pacific influence of the American officers.

Mindanaon villagers have seized a smuggling schooner bound from Iloilo to Zamboanga, and supposed to be run by two discharged soldiers. They murdered all the crew.

General Bates is now on board the Yorktown, bound on a month's trip to Balabac and Borneo, to observe the methods followed by the British in the government of the Mahommedans.

A Naval Account.

WASHINGTON, November 20.—The Navy Department has received a report of the acquisition of Zamboanga, which differs in some respects from the story told in General Otis' cablegrams. The naval account is contained in the following cablegram from Admiral Watson, dated Manila to-day.

"Commander Very, of the Castine, with friendly natives and Moros, combined, captured Zamboanga on the 16th instant. No casualties. Landing parties from the Castine and the Manila hold the town with Fort Nazro commanding it, pending arrival of troops from Jolo. There is a considerable force of insurgents at Mercedes, four miles away."

The acquisition of Zamboanga, at this time is of great importance from a military point of view. It is the principal city of Mindanao and dominates the entire southern half of that island which is second in importance only to Luzon.

It has a population of nearly 22,000 people and is well fortified, so that a small garrison of troops could hold it indefinitely against native attacks. In addition it is a naval station, where the Spaniards used to rendezvous their ships in the southern archipelago.

General Otis' dispatch intimates that he is somewhat embarrassed by the unexpected necessity of providing a garrison speedily for Zamboanga. It has been suggested that the difficulty might be met by garrisoning Zamboanga with a battalion of marines, one of which is understood now to be available in this country and ready to sail at short notice for Manila.

Mr. Anderson is one of the settlers and some time ago started his "mixed" school. A meeting of the people in the neighborhood was held and a committee was appointed to inform Mr. Anderson that his school must be disbanded or he would have to take the consequences. This gentleman informed the committee that he would continue his school at all hazards. Should he persist in his determination serious trouble will be certain to result.

MORE FIGHTING AT LADYSMITH.

Hundreds of Boers Said to Have Been Killed and Many Were Taken Prisoners.

BRITISH LOSSES WERE SLIGHT

Reports Not Confirmed—Severe Fighting at Mafeking—British Made Two Unsuccessful Attacks On Boer Forces—Gen. Buller.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, November 20.—A special dispatch from Estcourt, dated November 20th, says a report has reached there of a battle at Ladysmith Wednesday, November 15th, lasting from daybreak until two in the afternoon. Many Boers are said to have been killed and many are reported to have been taken prisoners. The British losses are reported to be much less.

Another battle is said to have occurred Thursday. It is described as the heaviest yet fought. The Boer dead, it is added, number hundreds, while the British losses were comparatively small.

Not Confirmed.

LONDON, November 21, 5 A. M.—The reports of heavy firing at Ladysmith last Wednesday have not been confirmed. On the contrary, reliable advices from Estcourt indicate that there was nothing more than a desultory cannonade. Probably the rumor of a serious engagement grew out of the fact that the Boers threw a few harmless shells late Tuesday night, leading to the supposition that an attack was imminent. Nothing, however, happened Wednesday.

Beyond the fact that the Boers are daily receiving fresh reinforcements and supplies, there is practically nothing new from the front.

The Boer invasion of Cape Colony continues steadily and rapidly. There are 1,300 Boers at Colesburg, and news has reached East London that Lady Grey, near Aliwalnorth, has been deserted by the British and is now in the hands of the enemy.

Fighting at Mafeking.

A Pretoria dispatch announces the arrival there, among the British prisoners, of Major Haldane, Lieutenant Brochie and Lieutenant Hallwey. It also declares that the British on Sunday made two unsuccessful attempts to oust the Rustenberg commando from a position near Mafeking, and that severe fighting took place.

From Delagoa bay come reports of the arrival of more German officers and artillerymen, who have volunteered to serve with the Transvaal forces.

The War Office semi-officially asserts that all news received from Africa has been published, with the exception of demands for the renewal of stores, war material and the like. There is an unconfirmed rumor that more troops have been ordered from India to the Cape.

General Buller has wired the commanding officer at Queenstown announcing the dispatch of General Gatacre with the first battalion of the Seventh brigade, to East London. This was the place from which it was originally intended that General Gatacre's column should start. Thus it is possible that General Buller's first plans have suffered less modification than some have supposed.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Standard publishes the following from Ladysmith, dated November 19th:

"The arrival of the relief column at Estcourt has completely modified the plans of the enemy and General Joubert has moved to the south, in an effort to prevent the junction of the two British forces."

To Aid the Boers.

BERLIN, November 20.—The Cologne Gazette publishes to-day the following dispatch from Cape Town:

"Everything is prepared for a general rising of the natives throughout Cape Colony. They are ready at any moment to make common cause with the Boers."

Bridge Company Released.

Articles of release were yesterday filed for registration at the court house from J. J. Nelligan, of Baltimore, trustee, to the Wilmington Railway Bridge Company. The company is released from a mortgage given in 1866 to Horace Abbott and George S. Brown, of Baltimore, and George Davis, of Wilmington, to secure payment of certain coupon bonds of said company to an amount not exceeding $400,000, all bearing date of October 1st, 1866, with interest payable semi-annually at 8 per cent., said bonds and coupons being guaranteed by the W. & W., W. & M. and W., C. & R. Railroad Companies. The instrument sets forth that all these claims have been fully paid and the mortgage thereby cancelled.

The Harness Thief.

Mack Taylor, the negro arrested by Policeman Watson Saturday evening for the larceny of a set of harness from Mr. George E. Pope, on Third street, was arraigned in the Mayor's Court yesterday and sent over for trial to the Criminal Court, now in session. Taylor exposed the harness for sale at Castle Haynes, and Chief Parmele hearing of this did not "let up" on the case until the thief had been bagged. The harness was thrown away in a field on the outskirts of the city upon the negro's return from Castle Haynes, and even this was recovered by the police and restored to the owner.

Other cases in the police court yesterday were unimportant.

Schooner Roger Moore.

In recording the sale of the derelict schooner Roger Moore, belonging to Mr. James T. Riley of this city, which was wrecked near Kinneaket life saving station during the recent hurricane, Sunday's Norfolk Virginian-Pilot says:

"Captain Dix was ordered to remain and dispose of the wreck. This he did successfully, making good bargains with the salvage men and selling everything at private sale, the whole netting $539 60. This will secure himself and crew in their wages out of the insurance, some $2,600 which this salvage will lessen materially.

The hull brought $58, and after all the parts of value were removed, the rest was burned to secure the old iron in it.

If you wish to sell a farm or city property place it in the hands of the East Carolina Real Estate Agency. R. G. Grady & Co., Burgaw, N. C. †

Murder in Columbus.

Mr. S. E. Memory, of Whiteville, who is here to attend the Fair, brought news to the city yesterday of a murder, which occurred in Columbus county last week. Two negro women, whose names he did not remember, engaged in a fight at Honey Hill, near Bogue, which resulted in one of them being stabbed to the heart, from which she fell dead. Jealousy was at the bottom of the affair. The murderess was placed in jail at Whiteville.
